

2026 National Conference

June 1-2, 2026

The Westin Boston Seaport District in Boston, MA

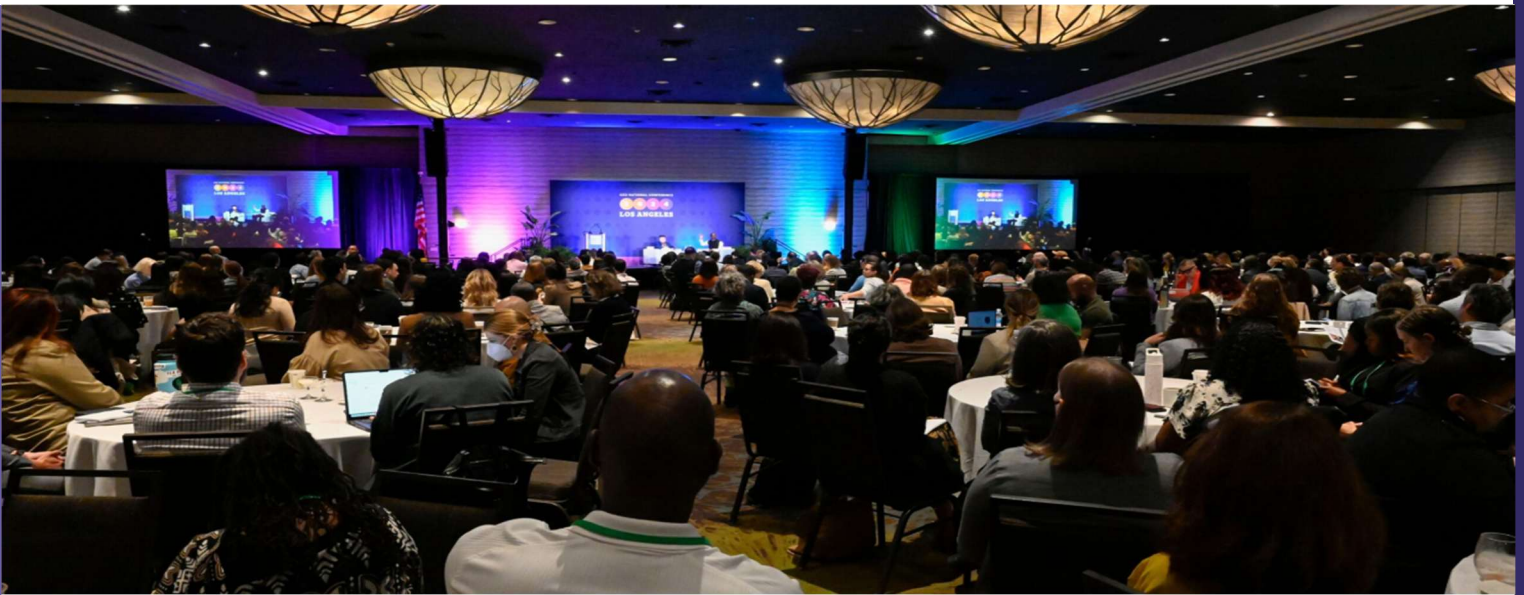

About the Conference

GEO's 2026 National Conference will focus on Transforming Philanthropic Culture and Practice, exploring the use of effective grantmaking practices in service of and in partnerships with the communities at the forefront of equity-informed social change.

The 2026 National Conference will feature interactive and thought-provoking programming, and an equity-centered learning environment that fosters vulnerability, collective learning and unlearning, and collaboration, so we are all better equipped to foster and be a part of organizations that adapt and thrive amid uncertainty. Together, we will convene a space that is equally supportive and challenging, where grantmakers in the GEO community can learn from communities, nonprofits and each other on how to change mindsets, improve practices and get unstuck in our efforts to make lasting change and impact.

Reasons to Attend:

- Hear cutting-edge examples and ideas from leaders in the field about advancing equity-centered and community-driven philanthropic culture and practice
- Gain tools and resources that will help you shed processes that do not serve nonprofit partners, change your practice and advance equity-centered and community-driven philanthropy
- Meet, connect and collaborate with others in the field who you can work with to address common challenges
- Be inspired to learn more!

Overall, one of the best conferences I've been to. People brought openness and friendliness...There was a sense of heart that was created in that space to learn together. It is special GEO magic.

- Cultivate community through peer networking events, social events, welcome receptions and lounge spaces.

Doing sponsorship differently.

To move away from hierarchical models of philanthropy and to reflect our vision of creating an inclusive society where all can thrive, we have shifted away from a sponsorship model based on tiered benefits. We know that traditional sponsorships can not only feel transactional but that they can also unintentionally perpetuate power imbalances relating to differences in giving amounts. We recognize that though our supporters have different giving capacities, we all share a common desire to help the sector transform philanthropic practice and culture. All gifts work toward that goal and deserve to be recognized as such.

We encourage all interested supporters to give at the level that feels most appropriate based on your organization's giving priorities, financial capacity and trust in GEO as an organization.

All supporters will be recognized for their contributions in print and online materials including but not limited to the GEO conference webpage, on-site signage, printed program book and at key sessions throughout the event.

Questions and Answers

Where is the list of benefits for each sponsor level?

To reflect our vision of creating an inclusive society where all can thrive, GEO is intentionally moving away from a sponsorship model that includes extrinsic benefits and instead focusing on the benefits your sponsorship has for our community.

This means that all sponsors will be recognized similarly with written recognition in print and online materials, including but not limited to the GEO conference webpage, on-site signage, printed program book and at key sessions throughout the event. If you have specific interests or needs that you would like to discuss as it relates to supporting the conference, please contact us directly at gentry@geofunders.org.

Why do you approach your sponsorships in this way?

We want to focus on the impact of our supporters.

Tiered sponsorship benefit models detract from the gift of support that organizations like yours make to our community. We believe that support of GEO's conference is not a transaction but rather a step toward meaningful change in the nonprofit and philanthropic sector.

As part of our goal to create shared power in the community, we believe that it's important to eliminate any illusions of positional power based on giving amount. For this reason, GEO no longer tiers our sponsor lists based on giving amount. We believe this better recognizes that support goes far beyond monetary contribution. All conference supporters will be recognized equitably for their gifts of time, thought, and financial resources.

How many complimentary tickets will I receive as a supporter?

Each supporter who makes a commitment of at least $8,000 will receive a promotional code good for one complimentary registration as a small token of our gratitude for their support. The fair market value of the complimentary registration is equal to the regular non-member registration rate.

All supporters will also receive access to our membership pricing and early bird registration period regardless of their current membership status.

Do I receive a complimentary ticket as a member of the Host Committee?

No, Host Committee members do not receive a complimentary ticket. However, the vast majority of Host Committee organizations are also conference supporters, which means your organization will likely receive a promotional code good for one complimentary registration as a small token of our gratitude.
